“The Intersection of Hunger and Poverty – a Personal Journey Towards Loaves & Fishes”?

Patricia A. Stern, Executive Director

Loaves & Fishes Food Pantry, Inc.

Throughout the month of January we will be exploring our theme – TRANSFORMATION – from a variety of perspectives – personal, congregational, societal and global. We will reflect on topics such as how we might transform our individual lives, transformation and healing, and how we might transform our relationships with one another and the earth. Come join us!

From Rev. Wendy

This week begins the annual mid-winter celebration of Hanukkah, the Jewish Festival of Lights. Hanukkah commemorates the story of the Maccabees who reclaimed the Temple after it had been occupied and desecrated by foreign forces. According to the story, the Maccabean priests only had enough oil to last for one night, but miraculously the fire they kindled continued to burn for eight nights until their supply of oil was restored.

Outwardly, the miracle is that one night's worth of oil burned for eight nights. However, according to some rabbinic commentary, the real miracle – the one that matters most - is that even though the Maccabees had only a small amount of oil, they did not give up and throw in the proverbial towel. The miracle was that they did what they could even though they knew, logically, that it wouldn't be enough. The miracle was that they did not hold back, but instead trusted that if they did what they could, no matter how small, something wonderful might come of it.

How easy it can be to lose heart and give up in the midst of trial and strife! How easy it can be to withhold what little we have to offer, fearing that it won't be enough, that our efforts will be wasted! But the lesson of Hanukkah is this: We must do what little we can do and trust that something awesome might come of it. Or as Helen Keller once said, "I am only one, but still I am one. I cannot do everything, but still I can do something; and because I cannot do everything, I will not refuse to do something that I can do."

Whatever trials you are facing in this season, may your heart be filled with courage and with faith!

I wish for you a Happy Hanukkah, a Joyful Yule, a Merry Christmas...and may your New Year be filled with blessings abundant!

Evensong

This winter, I will be facilitating Evensong. Extremely popular when it was first offered, Evensong is a multi-week series of gatherings in which participants "explore individual life journeys through sharing thoughts, experiences, doubts, and beliefs about traditional religious concepts." This is a great opportunity to get to know others and yourself on a deeper level as we explore together what we each believe individually.

Please call or email either me or Elinor Stapleton in the office by 10:00am on JANUARY 2nd to register!

5 Sunday evenings from 7-9:30
January 4, 11, 18, 25 and February 1

From the President of the Board

December 2014

We have been busy working to accomplish several important objectives for the year. In this update, I would like to speak to our objective, to improve the financial health of the church. As you know, we have both a Treasurer, nominated and voted for by the church members and a Bookkeeper, a paid position. We have been so fortunate to have had two members of our church hold both of these roles for many years. Barbara Kemp has served as our Treasurer and Louise “Weezie” Potter as our Bookkeeper. They have both announced their resignations for the end of this year and we are so very appreciative of the hard work and dedication to the important jobs that they have done so well for so many years. Thank you Barbara and Weezie!

So our first step to improve the financial health of our church will be to find two people who are interested and experienced to fill these important positions. The nominating committee will be searching for our next Treasurer as this is an elected position. If you have interest, however, please let anyone on the Board know and we will put you in touch with a committee member. With respect to the Bookkeeper, we would like for this person to be identified shortly after the first of the year so the person can start to work with Weezie to learn our programs and processes. Therefore, if you have an interest and experience in bookkeeping and would like to learn more, again please let any of the Board members know. By the way, this person does not need to be a member of our church so if you know of someone who would be qualified please let us know.

In addition to filling these roles, we are going to be looking at other ways in which we can make the financial work of our church stronger. Our discussions have ranged from accounting methods, to fundraising ideas to processes and procedures. While our church is on solid ground with respect to our finances, we can always make improvements to make it smoother.

Lastly, we are closing our Stewardship Campaign soon and at the time that I write this we still are a bit short of our goal. I first want to thank all who have given or plan to give to our church. Your wonderful contributions allow us to deliver our outstanding services, programs and world class music! We are very fortunate to have the resources that we have. If you have not yet given to this year’s campaign, we need your support to meet our goals. Thank you in advance for your pledge!!

Soon we will be moving in to 2015 and we look forward to continuing our work as a Board to accomplish all of our goals. Next month, I will provide an update on how we are proceeding with our Key Initiative, “Envisioning our Future!” On behalf of the Board, we wish you the very best Holiday and New Year!!

-Tom Daniells

Exciting News

Aaron Stockwell, your former Sabbatical Minister here. Just wanted to share the happy news that I was welcomed into Preliminary Fellowship as a Unitarian Universalist minister in early December. I will be ordained on June 6, 2015 at the First Parish Church of Groton, MA. I am forever thankful for the place that Harvard UU had in my ministerial formation.

Moments, Musings and Movies

This year a record number of youth completed the Coming of Age Program. At a recent ceremony they shared their COA experience and their credos. I was profoundly moved by their comfort as they stood before congregants. Their honesty, clarity of purpose, and well-stated credos, although impressive, stood second to their ease in the congregational setting. They are a testament to a welcoming, supportive community, as well as the best example I have seen that we do not indoctrinate young people in our religious education programs. William Ellery Channing would be proud indeed that those who advised our young people didn't "stamp our minds upon the young, but stirred up their own". Indeed, many of the participants identified Coming of Age as a time of "transition" in their thinking, citing they entered the program feeling their ideas wouldn't change, but in fact they did.

Transformation is the congregational worship theme for January. We invite the entire congregation to join us Saturday, January 3rd at 5:30 p.m. for a pot luck supper and a viewing of The Lego Movie. Movie critics, Frederick and Mary Ann Brusset have chosen The Lego Movie among the top ten spiritual animation movies. Some of the themes they cite which augment UU values include:

- Every person is special.
- Don't have disdain for the "other"
- Stories hold deep truths.
- Reverence everything around you
- The imagination stirs things up in a positive way
- "Do not seek to follow in the footsteps of the men of old; seek what they sought."
- Discover creative ways to follow instructions
- Everything is cool when you're part of a team. As spiritual literate people, we recognize our need for communities as divine milieus where we can grow and flourish. The movie's hero Emmet rises to the challenge of creating a community of activists who dare to change their world.

January will also see the beginning of the newly formed Faith Formation Dream Team. The purpose of this group is to develop long range strategies and oversee sequencing of curriculum. They will dream things into being. They will not be responsible for the day to day programming and operations, but will specialize in the "big picture" aspects of our programs.

The Dream Team will include representation from RE and YLD, a person who knows the history of past programs, a person skilled in developing new constituencies (new participants, leaders, volunteers), and a person with professional educational/developmental experience related to education or youth formation. I will lead the team and Wendy will be an ex-officio member.

Pam Reidy, Director of Faith Formation

Film Review

By Frederic and Mary Ann Brussat

The Lego Movie Directed by Christopher Miller, Phil Lord

Warner Home Video 02/14 DVD/VHS Animated Film PG - action, rude humor

Welcome to Bricksburg where everybody works for the gigantic Octan Corporation and is expected to follow the instructions governing daily life. Emmet (voiced by Chris Pratt) is an ordinary construction worker who is nearly invisible thanks to his conformist character. However, when he falls down a hole on the building site and finds a red plastic object unlike all the interlocking building blocks, everything changes for him. Vitruvius (Morgan Freeman), a blind seer, and Wyldstyle (Elizabeth Banks), a rebel with a cause, say that since he now has the fabled "Piece of Resistance," he must be "The Special" who, according to a prophecy, is the "greatest, most interesting, most important person in the world" destined to save the Lego universe from destruction. This development does not please President Business (Will Ferrell), head of the Octan Corporation who considers himself the ruler of the world. He has his own dark plans for the future. He is determined to destroy all freedom on Taco Tuesday. He's already captured and imprisoned the "master builders" for being free-thinkers and nonconformists. President Business' weapon of choice is known as the Kragle, which can only be stopped by the Piece of Resistance. He dispatches agents led by Bad Cop/Good Cop (Liam Neeson) to find the Piece and destroy the liberation movement.

Christopher Miller and Philip Lord (Cloudy with a Chance of Meatballs) are the directors of this immensely clever, creative, and zany animated parable about the spiritual perception that everyone is special and deserving of respect, love, and trust. On his quest to do good and save the world, Emmet meets a large band of heroes including Unikitty (Alison Bree), Batman (Will Arnett), Superman (Channing Tatum), Green Lantern (Jonah Hill) C3PO (Anthony Daniels), Wonder Woman (Cobie Smulders), a 1980-Something Space Guy (Charlie Day), and others. The appearance of these Comic Book Hall of Fame figures and movie superheroes will draw young boys back into the theater to enjoy all the action and clever plot twists time and time again. The Lego Movie is a fun-filled extravaganza of pop culture references, absurdist humor, and silly pranks that will appeal to the adults in the audience with their children, grandchildren, and special friends. We know our enjoyment of the movie was magnified by the company of our nephew and niece, Luke and Hannah, who were on their second viewing and had already memorized key lines. Both young and old will be pleased with the surprising development in the final section of this animated feature: it brings home all the playfulness that has preceded it.

Go Deeper

10 Reasons Why The Lego Movie Is an Awesome Spiritual Experience by Frederic and Mary Ann Brussat

1. Every person is special.

"Everybody's special. No matter who you are, you have your own unique personality, your own gifts and talents. Everybody is special in a different way. Everybody is special to somebody." This is how Luke and Hannah, our companions at the film, summed up its message. In our Alphabet of Spiritual Literacy, we call this the spiritual practice of You.

2. Stories are true, even though they are often made up.

Emmet is told that he is the Special person described in a prophecy by Vitruvius. But then the old sage admits that he made the whole thing up. That, however, does not mean that it is not true. Spiritual stories don't have to be historically proven to be true: they can touch our lives with their truths.

3. Greeting the day and the objects around us is awesome.

Emmet may be a nobody in the eyes of his co-workers but his spiritual practice of saying hello to the things around him each morning makes him a teacher of Reverence. He demonstrates what it is to have respect for the world around him.

4. The Man Upstairs is real.

There are several references in the film to an authority figure who is in charge of everything happening in Lego land. Some viewers may interpret this figure as God since "The Man Upstairs" is one of the thousands of names of God used over the years. For most of today's spiritual seekers, it's a rather dated designation, but still it is worth thinking about in the context of what happens in the film. (continued on page 6)

Here we respect our diversity and seek to understand our differences ...

5. The imagination stirs things up in a positive way.

Albert Einstein said: "Imagination is more important than knowledge," and Barry Lopez believed that "It is the imagination that gives shape to the universe." In the film, it is a catalyst to change in Bricksburg.

6. Discover creative ways to follow instructions.

There is nothing wrong with following instructions. When we learn a classic spiritual practice, it's good to know how it has been done by those before us. But, just like the Master Builders in The Lego Movie, we can use our imaginations as we follow instructions. The Zen Master Basho had the right idea when he said: "Do not seek to follow in the footsteps of the men of old; seek what they sought."

7. Don't have disdain for the "Other."

"Take everything weird and blow it up." These are the orders from the authoritarian President Business. Fortunately, Emmet and his friends find ways to break free of this toxic disdain for the "other" person who is odd, different, strange, or threatening.

8. "You don't have to be the bad guy!"

Emmet says to President Business: "You don't have to be the bad guy. You are capable of amazing things." Here is a spiritual perspective that encourages us to reframe our view of villains and see that it is possible for them to take all the energy they are putting into destruction and invest it in creativity. Gandhi used this reframing technique when he worked with the English during the movement for the Independence of India.

9. Everything is cool when you're part of a team.

As spiritual literate people, we recognize our need for communities as divine milieus where we can grow and flourish. Emmet rises to the challenge of creating a community of activists who dare to change their world. Or as Howard Thurman put it: "The moving finger of God in human history points ever in the same direction. There must be community."

10. Everything Is Awesome

The theme song for The Lego Movie was written by Shawn Patterson, Joshua Bartholomew and Lisa Harriton (Jo Li), was produced by Mark Mothersbaugh, and is performed by Tegan and Sara in collaboration with musical comedy trio The Lonely Island. Watch the music video here and read the lyrics here.

In The Book of Rites, Confucius says: "Always and in everything let there be reverence." This ancient sage realized that this spiritual quality and perspective is a building block of a better world. And the same understanding is expressed in this catchy tune from The Lego Movie. When we practice reverence, we create a field of positive energy by cherishing all parts of creation (blue skies, bouncy springs, a Nobel Prize, a piece of string, dogs and fleas, allergies, a book of Greek antiquities, brand new pants, a very old vest, trees, frogs, clogs, rocks, clocks, socks, figs, jigs, twigs), by affirming the values and worthwhileness of teamwork, and by challenging us to revere the specialness of every person ("Everything is awesome, when we're living our dream.")

Would you like to help with the Ebola Health Crisis? Substitute needed!

We are blessed to have generous and giving people in our congregation, among them Dr. Patty Ruze who will be going to Serra Leone to help out with the Ebola health crisis. If you've wanted to do service in response to this crisis, perhaps you would fill in for her on the Youth Leadership Development (YLD) team for Patty while she is gone! No special training is necessary, just keeping up with some of the extra tasks that come up for the youth programs while she is away. Patty will be gone January to March and then in quarantine for 21 days when she returns. Please see Tom Aciukewicz or Pam Reidy if you are willing to help with this.

Partner Church News

Below is the latest letter from minister Istvan Berei, or as they say in Rumania: Berei Istvan, of our Partner Church. I will elaborate in next month's Belfry.

-Mary Donald

“A long time ago, we wrote letters to each other but here we are working and we are keeping alive the partner church relationship.

We had a wonderful fall here too, and now we are waiting the winter.

In the school, with the children we made paintings for you, and I am waiting the address that to be possible to send it to you, maybe we can work, that in the future the children correspond together, and to keep, this relationship in the future, because next year will be 25 years old.

In the congregation the life is going with hardship financially, we cannot afford the salaries of the minister, music director, and the cleaner women, and we have a big financial problem, almost 4000 $ and we don't know from where we can take out this huge money, because the safe life of the people who are working for the congregation it is gone.

The members don't have money to pay the church taxes.

This is the hardest thing for us, and we cannot see, how will be the next year.

We are working and hoping, that something will change, with the new country president, because the economic crisis, it is here and it is hard for everyone.

In the congregation, we have members, who are getting 100$ retirement pay, and the young people are working for 200$ in a month, and many young people, are going in the EU to get jobs, and there they are working a lot, for the salary, 2-3 months, and they are coming home and living from that money 8-9 months.

You cannot imagine how hard it is to live the life here.

We are living with hope, and with God.

With love Rev. Berei Istvan”

From the Treasurer

To all HUUC committee chairs and volunteers: we appreciate your making Church purchases from your own funds. To ensure timely reimbursement, please submit your receipts along with one of the yellow reimbursement forms on the shelf just to the left inside the back door of the church. Complete the form, get it approved and signed by your committee chair, attach the receipts, and leave it in the bookkeeper's box. The same holds true for individuals requesting checks in advance for speakers or performers. There can be no reimbursement or advance payment without the completed form. And don't forget to use our tax-exempt certificate for taxable purchases. Elinor can supply these.

January 4th is Loaves and Fishes Sunday

While many people remember to donate food during the holiday season, sometimes it is easy to forget that the need is great after the holidays as well. Did you know that Loaves and Fishes distributes about 11,500 pounds of food each and every week? If you are able, please bring in boxes of pasta, jars of pasta sauce and canned pasta, which are some of their most needed items, and leave them in the Loaves and Fishes donation area in the church's foyer. If you have questions, please feel free to contact Risa Goldman at risajan@aol.com or anyone from the Social Action Committee.

Last Chance to Bring in Your Shaws Stamps!

The Glean Team is coordinating an effort to collect Shaws supermarket stamps for Transitions at Devens, a transitional shelter for women and their children. The women of Transitions can exchange stamps for Cuisinart stainless cookware such as skillets, lasagna pans and stockpots which they will use to outfit their kitchens with what they need most. If there are enough stamps, they will be used to make "purchases" for families who are moving out of Transitions and into their own homes. If you have stamps that you would like to donate, you may place them in the well-marked envelope next to the mailboxes by the back offices of the church. Hurry! The sticker promotion ends Dec. 25th but we will accept your stickers through January 4th. If you have any questions, please feel free to contact one of the Glean Team Co-chairs – Risa, Lisa, Cary or Ellen.

Thanks so much for participating!

Messiah Sing In

Don't miss the very special 50th annual presentation of Handel's Messiah Sing on Sunday, December 21, at 5:00 p.m.! Whether you come to sing or listen, you will be thrilled by this gorgeous traditional Christmas music. For many of us, participating in this joyous event is not to be missed! In our chancel a small orchestra, professional soloists, and our voices bring Handel's music to life once again.

In addition to stringed instruments there are oboes, bassoon, trumpet, organ, harpsichord, and tympani! Former long term organist of our church, Star Stevens, will return to accompany on harpsichord. Of course our Music director, Ted Johnson, happily directs us all, and a small children's choir is a joy to behold. Bring your own score or buy one at the door.

MUSIC NOTES

Musicians:

December 21- Jr. and Sr. Choirs
December 28- Eleanor Toth, piano
January 4- TBA
January 11- Choir
January 18- Jr. Choir

Jr. Choir:

Be sure to listen to the CD of our Solstice song so that you will know it well. Please meet me in the Belfry at 9 a.m. on Sunday, Dec. 21, so we can warm up and review the song. We'll be rehearsing with Ted at 9:20, and then sing in the intergenerational Solstice service.

Enjoy the holidays! We meet at the Fellowship Building for rehearsal at 11:20 on January 4 and 11 to learn a song for the Martin Luther King service on January 18. New singers welcome!

Chimers:

Thank you for lovely music on December 7. Take a breather and enjoy the holidays.

We are scheduled to play in the church service on March 1. Thus we will begin rehearsals at noon on January 4, then January 11 and 25.

I am grieved to say that Barbara Henderson has decided to resign from chiming, having been with us as a regular since we began. We will all miss her! Cassandra Werthman is not able to continue as a regular, so we are looking for new team players. Anyone? It's not necessary to be able to read music, although that is helpful.

Sr. Choir:

Get well everyone! I expect Ted will send a rehearsal reminder and invitation for this Thursday to sing and party at his and Donnalisa's house. We will be singing at the Solstice service this Sunday. The Christmas Eve group will have a special rehearsal on Tuesday evening, Dec. 23, and then sing in the 6 p.m. Christmas Eve service.

Happy holidays! We meet in the new year on Thursday, January 8 to prepare for the January 11 service. The next rehearsal will be January 22.

We hope to see you at the 50th Anniversary of the Messiah Sing on Sunday, December 21 at 5 p.m. This is an experience not to be missed!

Eleanor Toth
